able our students to get the required certification for the state of Maryland licensing law! This is a great day in the history of our development. The ONLINE course is offered at www.BestTrainingSchool.com with the following disclosure statement:

As a pre-requisite to taking this test prep course, you are required to attend an onsite training that includes a 3-5 day class offered by an approved training provider. If you have not taken onsite training, do not purchase this class as it is not intended to replace an onsite remediation class.

The AIAQC logo is used to communicate that this course prepares candidates to take CMR, CMRS, and CRMR certification exams and does not imply a contract or partnership between NORMI and the AIAQC.

This course additionally qualifies for CEUs for both NORMI and AIAQC.

AIAQC CMR Test Prep (ONLINE)
 This course was specifically designed to supplement our CMR 3-Day Training and prepare the student for taking the AIAQC Council-Certified Mold Remediator Examination. This giant step toward more credibility will en-

Mold Inspection is performed and remediation is unnecessary! Sanitization is less expensive, less invasive, and less destructive to the home/office.

Once the Certified IAQ/Mold Inspector determines the extent of the IAQ/Mold problems, he may legitimately suggest a sanitization protocol and assist his client in expediting the solution. By partnering with the homeowner to establish a lifestyle that substantially reduces the possibility of proliferating IAQ/Mold problems, a healthier environment is established and maintained for the homeowner and his family.

This class will train the attendee in the problems of mold, the screening processes used to evaluate the IAQ profile, and the solutions used to fix discovered problems. As an entrepreneur, having this credibility in the field makes it easier to build a strong business around one of the hottest topics—mold. Any IAQ professional should consider the value of this course when thinking about how he/she can succeed in the market.
